FROM THE CEO

Frank Ware's legacy is a call to service for vulnerable people

This issue was ready to go to press on February 13 when Frank Ware, my friend and longtime ally in the behavioral health realm died suddenly. Frank was known throughout this region for his longtime leadership at Janet Wattles Center, where he was a fierce advocate for individuals with mental illness. I was honored to know him, and I'll miss him greatly.

His death hit me and others in our organization very hard, and not just because we have lost a dear friend. When Frank died, Janet Wattles and Rosecrance had just entered into a formal affiliation that presents amazing opportunities to improve services for people with addiction, mental illness and co-occurring disorders, a growing population.

My original letter for this space was full of excitement about the big plans Frank and I had for the future. I remain committed to those plans. For more than a year, Frank and I had been meeting to talk about how we could work together. Our discussions took place against a backdrop of escalating need and the ever-more-precarious state of government funding upon which each of us relied to varying degrees.

In November, our separate boards of directors unanimously supported the affiliation agreement. The new corporate structure, with Rosecrance Health Network as the parent company, became effective on January 1.

And so, the agency Frank had led for 22 years and Rosecrance, where I've spent nearly four decades, stepped into the future together. This affiliation creates the most comprehensive network of care in the state of Illinois, and it is a model for the nation.

Frank and I knew that we had the professional staff with the expertise and vision to make it happen. Together Rosecrance and Janet Wattles have 550 employees and a combined budget of almost $46 million. Together, our organizations deliver services to 12,000 people each year.

Now, as we move forward without Frank, our sadness is laced with even greater determination to realize the vision he and I had when we first discussed joining forces.

We truly believed that Rosecrance and Janet Wattles, which are models for quality care on their own, would be even better together. Frank wouldn't entertain the notion of failure, nor will I.

As we continue to move our mission forward, please keep our board, staff and the patients we serve in your prayers as we all go, by the Grace of God, one day at a time.

Family educators offer lifeline for loved ones

Addiction is a family disease; recovery is a family matter. Rosecrance programs give families hope and skills to heal themselves and support the addict in recovery.

Vicki Larkin puts out materials on addiction and recovery for use by patients' family members who attend her weekend sessions at the Harrison Adult Treatment Center.

Opening the mail is a highlight of the day for Rosecrance's Family Program Coordinators. Vicki Larkin and Mary Roufa keep stacks of cards and letters they receive from grateful moms, dads, siblings and grandparents of patients in treatment.

Vicki runs the family program at the Adult Treatment Center on Harrison Avenue. Recently, a parent wrote to her: "I am sure that some weeks you must wonder if your words made a difference. Let me assure you that you are the lifeline many of us are hanging on to as we attempt to find the tools to help our loved one."

The themes of gratitude are similar in correspondence received by Mary, the family program coordinator at the Griffin Williamson Adolescent Treatment Center on University Drive. Mary and Vicki treasure the cards and letters as evidence that they are making a difference in the lives of the families they serve.

"Recovery is not just for the addict," said Mary, "but for the entire family unit."

Relatives of the person who abuses drugs or alcohol often are the "hidden victims" of addiction. They may carry shame or guilt because they feel the abuse was caused by something they did wrong.

"They feel as if they have to do everything within their power to help the addict, hurting themselves and enabling the addict," said Mary.

Through the family program, which serves as many as three dozen families at the two campuses each weekend, participants learn that healing themselves is the first step toward helping the addict. Program coordinators are skilled educators who provide information about various drugs and their effects on the mind and body. They also use such activities as role-playing and small group sharing sessions to engage families in the learning process.

“The more family members that attend,” Vicki said, “the better chance of a positive outcome because the family is better prepared to support the recovering addict, be aware of the relapse signs, and have the skills to deal with these situations.”

Family members 10 years old and above are encouraged to attend the weekend sessions, and there’s no limit on how many relatives are allowed to come. A key message they must absorb is that they have to be willing to support recovery rather than the addiction.

Often, Vicki said, a program participant tells her: “I was made aware of the things I was doing that were keeping my loved one sick.” Families that are open to change and accept their role in the addict’s disease have a head start on the recovery process, the coordinators say.

As relatives share their experiences in small groups, they discover that others have gone through the same things. They discover they are not alone in their feelings of fear, shame and guilt. While no one can heal the addict except himself or herself, the family can provide a sound support structure that offers the struggling individual the best opportunity for lasting recovery.

NEWS

New unit at Harrison Campus offers priority to veterans

Rosecrance will open a new inpatient treatment unit in mid-February to serve adult patients with co-occurring addiction and mental health disorders.

The new 14-bed unit, located on the third floor at the Harrison Adult Treatment Center, breaks ground for community-based inpatient treatment centers in Illinois by offering priority admission and a special programming track for veterans of the U.S. armed forces.

This new program addresses a growing national crisis among military personnel returning from the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan with substance abuse and mental health issues. Rosecrance President/CEO Philip W. Eaton said that the Rosecrance Health Network

Board, when presented with the need to serve veterans, didn't hesitate to approve the $1 million capital project.

"The immediate reaction was: 'If not us, then who else can and will do this?'" Eaton said. "These families have sacrificed so much to serve our country, and we have an obligation to help these veterans find the way 'home' from the emotional devastation of war."

The new unit also will help Rosecrance meet the growing need for dual-diagnosis treatment among the general population. An estimated 168 patients will be served annually on the new unit. The dual-diagnosis inpatient program brings the total to 94 treatment beds at the Harrison Adult Treatment Center.

Donors moved by veterans' needs

Friends of Rosecrance embraced the opportunity to help fund the new dual-diagnosis treatment unit at the Harrison Campus, where veterans of the U.S. military will be offered priority admission.

The Woodward Charitable Trust, the philanthropic arm of Woodward Inc., made a lead gift of $100,000 to fund the day room on the unit.

Other major gifts included those from Kelley Williamson Company, Beloit Foundation, Kerry Ingredients & Flavours, Smith Charitable Foundation, Williams Manny Charitable Trust, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rhea and Mrs. Jean A. Castle.

Rosecrance staff members raised about $35,000 from their own ranks to pay for a bedroom on the new unit. And 100 percent of the membership of the Rosecrance boards of directors made gifts to the project.

"We are always humbled by the generosity of so many in our community, even during challenging economic times," said Lynne Vass, Senior VP of Development. "We believe that our services for veterans and their families struck a chord among donors."

Hundreds of donors who helped Rosecrance reach the $1 million goal will be recognized at an open house for the new treatment unit that is being planned for the spring.

Get ready for an electrifying evening of unforgettable hits from four recent leading cast members of the smash Tony Award-winning hit "Jersey Boys."

Backed by seven jazz musicians, they bring to life doo-wop favorites, golden oldies, Rat Pack tunes and Four Seasons music.

All this and more awaits the audience at The Rosecrance Foundation Benefit at 6:30 p.m. on Monday, April 11, at Giovanni's in Rockford. The spotlight will be on recovery as we raise funds to help needy families affected by drug or alcohol addictions.

Caring and generous individuals have supported the benefit by contributing more than $4 million over the past 20 years to provide charity care for youth, adults and families. Our goal this year is to raise $350,000.

The 2011 Rosecrance Benefit continues the tradition of inspiration and thrilling entertainment with "Under the Streetlamp," a group comprised of former lead singers from the Chicago cast of "Jersey Boys." All proceeds from the Benefit go to support the Kinley Charity Care Fund.

Tickets are $150 per person or $1,500 for a table of 10. Tickets include dinner. The Benefactor Society, which is the backbone of support for this benefit, offers levels of support beginning at $1,500 for 2 tickets. ⓘ

FUNDRAISING

Endowment ... the gift that keeps on giving

An endowment gift to Rosecrance is a wonderful way for a donor to leave a legacy that will benefit patients and families we serve both today and in the years to come.

How does that work? The principal of an endowment gift is permanently set aside and invested. A portion of the income generated from the endowment each year may be used to meet important organizational needs. The endowment's principal will continue to grow through the years and create even more income to support Rosecrance.

Endowments have been around since the middle ages in England when landowners made gifts of land to provide an income for Franciscan Friars. Today, some friends of Rosecrance may choose to give to support endowment during their lifetimes. Others may remember Rosecrance in their estate planning.

"Endowment funds help ensure the future viability and growth of an organization and its mission," said Jerry Paris, chair of the Rosecrance Endowment Fund committee. "It is important for us to grow our endowment fund so we can continue to provide charity care for families and meet important program needs just as we have for the past 94 years."

Endowment is truly the gift that keeps on giving ... both now and in the future. There are many ways to give. Donors who make a planned gift to support The Rosecrance Endowment Fund are honored with membership in The 1916 Society.

'Cooking Up Hope' debut offers delectable cuisine to guests

Eleven chefs representing top Chicago area restaurants wowed the crowd at the Chicago Foundation Board's inaugural chef's tasting fundraiser held at Naperville Country Club in early October.

Their cuisine included everything from beef tenderloin sliders to seared sea scallops and white truffle risotto to corned beef heart with cauliflower piccalilli. One chef even prepared an edible underwater aquatic seafood sculpture.

David "Kap" Kaplan, Rosecrance Foundation board member and well-known Chicago radio and television sports personality, talked sports with guests as he emceed the event. He thanked them for giving Chicago area families the opportunity to find hope and get help for their addictions through the Kinley Charity Care Fund.

All proceeds from the event went to help families in need of financial assistance for treatment.

"This was our first fundraising event in the Chicago area, and we are really pleased with its success," said Chicago Board Chair John McDonough. "The chefs did a fabulous job, everyone had a great time, and, most importantly, we raised funds to help families. What's not to like about that?" 📌

ON THE MOVE

2010 highlights & accomplishments

2010 was a year of growth. We expanded services, restructured leadership, established new associations and made guest appearances on national television shows.

Recovery programs expand to include males

Recognizing a lack of recovery support communities for adolescent and adult males, Rosecrance re-assigned Hillman Recovery home to house adolescent boys and expanded HomeBase Recovery Home to accommodate men. Within these recovery-focused transitional living communities, individuals receive support and guidance in recovery along with job skills training, educational opportunities, fitness and wellness training and access to ongoing outpatient and recovery support groups.

Rosecrance established new foundation board in Chicago

An increasing number of individuals who struggle with addiction can't afford help and need financial assistance. To help meet this need, The Rosecrance Foundation formed the Chicago Foundation Board to increase Chicago-area philanthropic support.

Alumni events attendance reaches record high

Rosecrance alumni events attracted more than 400 individuals in FY10. Rosecrance alumni, friends in recovery and staff participated in the following events: alumni picnic, Ice Hogs hockey game, a "The Second City" play in Chicago and a golf outing at Swan Hills Golf Course in Belvidere.

State's Attorney's Office supports 'Drug School'

Rosecrance entered into a joint effort with the Winnebago County State's Attorney's Office to run a drug school that would provide some individuals with drug-related charges the opportunity to attend an intensive drug education program in lieu of prosecution. The class consists of 15 hours of classroom time over six weeks. Participants learn about the relationship between drugs and crime and the consequences of conviction.

Rosecrance appeared on The Oprah Show

The Oprah Winfrey Show addressed the issue of prescription pill addiction by bringing on a family who was dealing with this issue. Unbeknownst to them, The Oprah Show arranged to provide the family with addiction treatment through Rosecrance. Our own Dr. Thomas Wright, Chief Medical Officer, appeared on the show to offer expert information.

A&E's Intervention requested our assistance

Rosecrance's services were offered on an episode of the Emmy-winning program, Intervention. This show helps family members stage an intervention and get treatment for their loved ones. Joe, a young heroin addict, accepted the invitation for treatment at Rosecrance. The "Joe" episode can be viewed on www.aetv.com.

New satellite offices increase access to services

In FY10, Rosecrance opened two satellite offices: one in Geneva, IL, and the other in the heart of Chicago in the Lincoln Park area. Rosecrance has opened five satellite offices in the Chicagoland area in the last three years. In addition to offering free, confidential assessments and resource information, the Lincoln Park location is able to provide counseling and psychiatric services through a collaborative effort with Dr. Caryn Stoller. The Lincoln Park office is located at 2835 North Sheffield Avenue, Suite 217 and the Geneva office is located at 227 North Fourth Street.

New program serves patients in sensitive occupations

Rosecrance has started a new outpatient program to serve individuals who are in sensitive occupations that make discretion a particular concern. The program, which will be offered at the SwedishAmerican Medical Center in Belvidere, caters to individuals who work in high-profile, high-accountability or safety-sensitive jobs. Veteran Rosecrance addiction counselor Bob Tutt will be the program therapist.

New roles for Rosecrance staff in 2011

Judith Jobe, M.S., was named Senior Vice President and Chief Administrative Officer for Rosecrance Health Network. She also was named Acting Chief Operating Officer of Mental Health Services in the wake of Frank Ware's death and until someone is named to fill that position permanently. Judi previously was Executive Vice President for the organization. She has been with Rosecrance for 33 years.

David Gornel, M.S., has accepted the position Senior Vice President and Chief Operating Officer of Substance Abuse Services for the Rosecrance Health Network. He previously was Senior Vice President of Adolescent Services and Administrator of the Griffin Williamson campus and has been with Rosecrance for 16 years.

Mary Ann Abate, M.S., L.S.W., was named Vice President/Administrator of Janet Wattles Center when the center affiliated with Rosecrance in January. In her new position, Mary Ann will oversee all operations at the downtown center, which provides outpatient mental health services and 24-hour emergency care for clients in psychiatric crisis. Previously, Mary Ann was director of Janet Wattles, where she has worked for more than 30 years.

Bruce Parks, M.S., has been named Vice President/Administrator of Mildred Berry Center, where he oversees services for children and families seeking mental health services. Bruce, who has been with Janet Wattles for more than 33 years, has been director of the Mildred Berry Center since 1988.

Judy Emerson, M.S., has been named Director of Communications for Rosecrance Health Network. Previously, she was Director of Development for The Rosecrance Foundation. She came to Rosecrance in 2008 after a 22-year career as a columnist for the Rockford Register Star.
